HOW AUTHORS WRITE

Do you want to know more about this business of writing for publication?

We are pleased to announce the publication of HOW AUTHORS WRITE, a helpful and most interesting book from the skillful pen of John George Hartwig. Mr. Hartwig is himself an author of distinction, and his many years of experience as an Editor give him a clear insight into the problems of the craft. He writes with authority, for he well knows the trials and tribulations of this business of writing and marketing manuscripts.

HOW AUTHORS WRITE is a series of intimate portraits of eighteen of the more prominent contemporary writers—based on interviews—revealing the inside stories of their “office methods;” how they approach the writing of a given book; how they work and how they play; their likes and dislikes, even down to their hobbies and aversions.

As an author you will be interested in knowing how “they do it.” Here you will find reliable suggestions as to how authors choose their subjects, gather their material and how they “put it together.” One good, constructive idea gleaned from a fellow-craftsman will be worth to you many times the price of the book. There is also a most unusual and useful supplement, THE AUTHOR'S CREED, it will serve you as a constant inspiration towards better craftsmanship, it will show you how you can keep supplied with a never ending stream of ideas as to what to write, and how to write it.

Printed on fine book paper, deep blue cover with title stamped in gold—suitable for a gift—price one dollar. As this edition is limited to one thousand copies, we urge you to send your order today.
