Jind Camp,
Katrain.
19th April 1942.

My dear Prof Roerich,

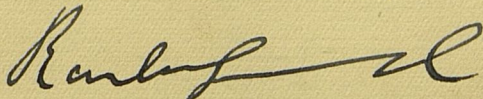

I feel I must write and tell you how immensely I enjoyed my visit to you yesterday. It was good of Baldoon to come all the way down to convey the invitation on your behalf, thus affording me an opportunity of meeting you and your family. I shall always cherish the pleasantest recollections of what all I was shown.

The collection of paintings and other works of art, rare and unique, were so interesting indeed. Accept my best thanks for the kind hospitality.

Do see, please, that whenever you come to the plains, a visit to me and my State is not missed. You, with all member of your family, would always be welcome. This may be treated as a standing invitation.

With kind thoughts,

Yours Sincerely,

Maharaja of Jind.
