DERK BODDE

With introduction, notes, bibliography and index

1937. 472 pp. With map of China. roy. 8vo.

Price 13.50 guilders

The original work is in two volumes. Only the first volume, which is complete in itself, is translated here. If possible the second volume will be published in 1939

THIS book is the translation of a Chinese work which, since its appearance in 1931, has not only been accepted by Chinese scholars as the most important contribution yet made to the study of their country's philosophy, but remains the most complete work on the subject that has been written in any language. The philosophy of the Chou dynasty described by it was in many ways as remarkable as the philosophy of ancient Greece, almost contemporary with it.

The author Dr FUNG YU-LAN, one of the most outstanding historians of Chinese philosophy has been since 1927 professor of philosophy at the National Tsing Hua University, Peiping.

The Chinese drama is thought of as having a higher mission than merely to entertain and amuse. The moral is one of the most important elements as well as one of the most prominent features of a Chinese drama. With this thought in mind, one can understand the setting and general atmosphere of the Chinese stage.

THE initiative for the T'oung Pao was due to two prominent sinologists, one French and one Dutch: HENRI CORDIER and GUSTAVE SCHLEGEL. In 1903 Prof. SCHLEGEL passed away. He was succeeded by ÉD. CHAVANNES (1904—1916) and PAUL PELLIOT (1921). Today the old tradition is taken up again, and in 1936 Prof. J. J. L. DUYVENDAK of the Leiden University joined as editor. The 通報 T'oung Pao is strictly international and publishes papers by orientalists from every part of the world, scholarship being the only criterion. As to the languages used: French, German, or English are admitted as a medium.
