MOUTON & CO · 'S-GRAVENHAGE

The "Indo-Iranian Journal" has been founded to meet the need of a specialized periodical devoted to Indian and Iranian studies. The field covered will not be strictly limited to India and Iran proper, as the journal is also to publish studies on the cultures of the neighbouring countries in so far as these have been under the influence of India or Iran. Papers on entirely original developments in these countries accordingly fall without its scope. For the Iranian part the upper chronological limit has been fixed at about the beginning of the Moslem period. Studies on Persian literature are in principle excluded. As for the Indological part, no chronological limit has been set, since the journal is intended to cover the whole history of India up to modern times, with the sole exception of the Mogul civilization, and the whole field of both Aryan and non-Aryan cultures and languages. It is proposed to confine the contents of this journal to the following fields of research: linguistics, history, religion, philosophy, and epigraphy. Purely sociological and ethnographical studies will be excluded.

The "Indo-Iranian Journal" will appear four times per annum. Each issue will consist of approximately 80 pages. The subscription price per annum is Dutch Gld. 30.— (= ab. $ 8, sh. 56/—, DM 33.50, fr.frs. 2750, etc.). Subscriptions are to be sent to your bookseller or to the publishers:
