October 31, 1931.

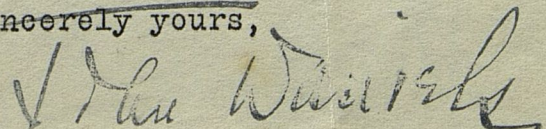

Dear Mr. Roerich:

Present conditions make it all the more essential to maintain and extend the work of the English-Speaking Union. Our organization embodies the idea of comradeship and mutual service throughout the English-Speaking world. It carries out that purpose in concrete constructive ways. When members of our American society travel overseas, they receive much friendly assistance from the British society, and we in turn are constantly extending courtesies and hospitality to visitors from abroad.

All this contributes very substantially to that good understanding and cooperation between English-speaking people which is truly indispensable for the whole world in assuring recovery from the widespread depression, and getting back on the highroad of progress.

We have previously sent you a notice of your own dues for membership in the English-Speaking Union. Apparently your attention to the matter has been deferred or overlooked. Now in behalf of our Board of Directors I am sending you a duplicate notice, and am asked to say that your sustained interest and encouragement will be greatly appreciated. Besides sending in your own dues, won't you kindly give us on the accompanying form the names of friends whom we may invite to join on your proposal.

Sincerely yours,

John Daniels,
National Secretary.

Some of those who have been most closely identified with our work will be with us. Branches in many parts of the country will be represented by Delegates.

Mr. Davis has headed our organization for ten years. Mr. Campbell came to New York early this year to assume the most important Consular post in America. His delightful wit and humor are not the least of his credentials. Mr. Johns is visiting America for the first time, under our auspices. Mr. Morris was Ambassador to Japan in the crucial years 1917-21. He is prominently connected with many important activities, and is also one of our national Directors. Mr. Rickard of San Francisco is a distinguished mining engineer, editor and author, under whose Presidency our California Branch has made a notable record. Mr. Daniels has had executive charge of our work for ten years almost to a day from the above date.
