People to people (International)

In the words of its founder—President, the distinguished Ex-President of USA, DWIGHT. D. EISENHOWER, People to People is a “Voluntary effort of private citizens to advance the cause of international friendship.”

People to People is a non-governmental, non-political and non-profit organisation designed to foster those educational processes which will promote understanding and goodwill among people of all nations. Its purpose is also to achieve the goal of international understanding and to promote the contact between people through all channels of communication. People of all ages are invited to participate in this programme. It provides opportunities for world wide Person to Person communication in a spirit of friendly interchange. People to People attracted nearly five million participants over the globe. Despite differences in politics, colour, religion, customs and heritage, they meet “man as man” through a variety of activities and common interests.

Dr. S. Radhakrishnan

Ex. President of India Says ...

“After all, Governments make wars and people fight them; and if we are able to establish contacts between people, that will go a great way in promoting the well-being of the world.”
