

4.

CULTURAL PRIVILEGES

For Resident Members of Roerich Museum Apartments

Exhibitions - Lectures - Recitals - Cinema

The Roerich Museum, displaying over 1,000 paintings of the world-renowned artist, scientist and philosopher, Nicholas Roerich, is open daily. Opportunity of enjoying other activities of the Roerich Museum institutions is offered.

Resident Membership

All residents of Roerich Museum Apartments become members of the Roerich Society with the following privileges:

Free attendance to the series of lectures - recitals and cinema covering all phases of art, science and culture. Last season more than 100 events were given for members.

Monthly bulletin of the Roerich Museum, covering all activities of the Roerich Museum, its departments, and affiliated institutions.

Complimentary copy of Roerich Museum Annual.

Privilege of joining literary, art and discussion groups.

Library

Spacious, comfortable library, overlooking Riverside Drive, containing large collections of classic and contemporary literature.

Roerich Hall

This auditorium provides the opportunity of enjoying under one's own roof the program of concerts, lectures, dramatic performances, dance recitals, cinema and other events.

Page 145/1

ROERICH MUSEUM APARTMENTS

"Live in a Home of Art and Culture"

310 RIVERSIDE DRIVE, NEW YORK
(Cor. 103rd St.)

Tel.: CLarkson 2 - 1700

RESIDENTIAL APARTMENTS OF ROERICH MUSEUM

1 - 2 - 3 ROOM SUITES

All outside rooms — furnished and unfurnished

Studio windows in corner apartments.

Serving pantry — private bath and silent refrigeration in each apartment with Complete Maid Service and other conveniences.

Many Apartments with Terraces.

Restaurant

Excellent cuisine — popular prices

Special $1.00 Dinner

55c - 75c Luncheons

Solarium

Overlooking Hudson River and New York Skyline.

Additional Meetings Rooms for cultural events and social entertainments.

Location

One of convenience as well as beauty.

Situated on Riverside Drive at 103rd Street.

Accessibility

Buses stop at the door.

Subway express station at 103rd Street, only 10 minutes from Times Square, is but a two minutes walk.

Broadway street car convenient.

ROERICH MUSEUM APARTMENTS

23.
With the drawing to a close of the third winter season since the inauguration of the Roerich Museum Apartments, once again one witnesses the success of the unprecedented plan inaugurated by the Roerich Museum in having apartments within its building.

When the Roerich Museum was first conceived, as a great community which should bridge art and life, the plan of including a part of the building for apartments was seen as a manner in which the simplicity and the standards of modern home life, might be combined with unprecedented cultural possibilities.

The soundness and justification of this idea, has been vindicated in the experience of the last three years. Perhaps never before have art and life become so interwoven; for those members of the Roerich Society who have been privileged to take advantage of living in the Roerich Museum Apartments, have been quick to appreciate and avail themselves of the manifold cultural opportunities which the Roerich Museum provides for its residents, practically within their very homes. As an estimate of the extent of cultural opportunities afforded our resident members, one may but mention that during the last season over one hundred lectures and concerts were presented and the plans for the coming season include an even wider scope of Museum activities.

Constant applications for the apartments reveal how widely this great possibility has taken root. Applications for the apartments are now being received.

Among the apartments available are the one, two and three-room apartments with the corner windows which, on the completion of the Roerich Museum Building, were hailed as one of the most unique developments in modern American architecture.