

We shall never deny that we are following with great interest all achievements of Science. Be it the Society for Psychic Research, or the research in Duke University on telepathy, or the case of the remarkable little girl in Delhi, or photographing the Invisible World - to all manifestations of knowledge each cultural person must be absolutely and benevolently open. You have the article - "Combating Ignorance" - it is written with the purpose to answer certain malicious inventions. The Society for Psychic Research, as well as Spiritualism in its high aspirations, as well as all experiments upon psychic energy must be met with good will, and call forth most careful scientific investigation. Only ignoramuses do not know how many most useful institute and university courses for the study of psychic manifestations have been opened lately in many countries. Only ignoramuses do not know how many scientific books by leading scientists, for instance Alexis Carrell (who worked with Lindbergh) were published during recent years. Each acultural attack at attainment of knowledge should meet a strong, logical repulse, so that the militant ignoramuses should sink into that swamp which they deserve. Theosophists, investigators of psychic research, spiritualists and physiologists, no matter what camp they belong to, are pioneers of the science of the future. Psychic manifestations, as the basis of human creativeness and progress will find a worthy place in the attainments of evolution.
