My dear Prem,

It is really wonderful to have your letter of the 10th. October which I have just received. I do not know why, but we both remember well that someone told us that you both had gone abroad. We never stayed long in Delhi, but if we knew you were there, it would have so nice to have met. Thank you very much for mentioning the 90th. Birth Anniversary of Prof. Nicholas Roerich in the editorial, this is very nice indeed. As a matter of fact the whole year will be dedicated to him. Please have the Circulation Manager send me six copies of the issue, as all over the world they wish to have the Press writeups and especially in the USA. & USSR., as they will be adding these to other data in the publications which will be now published during 1964.-65.

Things have happened this year which all of us will not be able to forget, and many more things will happen. One still lives through it all, and one wonders how everything will be in the future. A real talk with you two dears is absolutely necessary, one has few these days with whom one can just and sit and chat, do you not agree? But life is always interesting, full of new things, full of so many strange adventures, and one just goes through it all quite normally. How are you dear Prem? I wish we could be in the mountains and just chat, there is really no place like the Himalayas, this year, and last we spent a great deal of time in those regions, and felt very happy! We shall be in Delhi sometime in November, and then hope we shall have the pleasure of seeing you both, and the children. Write me sometimes, when you are more free from the rush of life there. When are you going to write a book, it is time, and you must do so, there are few who know as much as you do because you have lived in the two worlds, and have had vast experience. It is that rich experience which matters, does it not?

With much love from us both to you two very dear ones,

Yours very sincerely,

Prem.
