Dear Friend,

It is with deep concern that I have learned of your having been ill, but knowing of the ever vital source of energy which you possess, I am confident that you have completely overcome the allment and that this greeting of mine will find you in the best of health. All theel weeks I have surrounded you with my best thoughts, sending you across the space my best wishes. We are still so sorry that during your last sojourn in India, you were prevented from visiting us. I hope that in the near future we shall have the great pleasure of seeing you again. I cherish the memory of your friendship and I behold you and your family in my heart as our dear friends. Your name resounds often in our midst and it is with a sense of hearty waimth that we speak of you, our dear hrs. Crane and John.

From our remote retreat we keep in touch with the world by very active work. Prof. Roerich is in the Far East, as you know. Since the Roerich Pact has made great progress by being ratified by the USA and the Americas, Prof. Roerich may come this spring again to the USA to attend the planned celebration at Washington for this occasion.

May these lines convey to you my heartiest thoughts and wishes for a speedy recovery. It will give me great pleasure to hear from you about your health and your dear family.

With my warmest greetings to Mrs. Crane and yourself, Yours in spirit,
