My dear Madame Roerich,

It gave us great joy and happiness to see you, Professor Roerich and your two sons yesterday. It was a memorable day. I shall treasure the pamphlets and prints Professor Roerich gave me, and I am glad to have your book to read.

Thank you very much for welcoming us to your lovely home and for showing us the paintings which moved and impressed me greatly.

With our greetings -

Yours very sincerely,
Jane Blagden.

Dear Madame Rerich,

We were so very disappointed that we could not come to say 'Auravain' to you today because of the weather.

At least we thought of you all sitting round your table talking, and eating lovely things - how we longed to be with you.

I am returning your book by Gyprian tomorrow morning. Thank you very much for letting me read it; as a warm exposition of that great Teacher, Buddha, (never so much needed as today)

I found it quite entrancing.

I do hope that one day - in the not so distant future - I may meet you, Professor Rerich and your two sons again. Until then, all good wishes and my love.

Yours very sincerely
Jane Blapen.

Dear Madame and Professor Roerich,

I want to say thank you again for the baskets of apples which you sent us on the eve of our departure from Katrain. It was most kind of you. When we reach Calcutta and open them we shall again relive the happy moments we had with you.

We had to walk to Kulu & take our luggage on ponies, but otherwise had an easy journey.

We miss the mountains and their loveliness, but are staying here with delightful people who make the return to this bearable.

We leave here on Friday from Calcutta via Delhi where Cyprian has to do some work.

We both look forward to the time when we shall see you all again until then we shall cherish our happy memories of you.

With our love and good wishes

Yours very sincerely,
Cyprian and Jane Blayden.
