Dear Madame Roenich —

Please forgive my not writing sooner to you to express my pleasure in having been asked to lunch with you the other day. I started back to Delhi on the 26th and was taken very ill on the way. I have now been four days in hospital here and feel sufficiently strong to write to you.

I so enjoyed my visit to you all - your lovely home with its glorious views and the conversation which we had over things which are so close to all our hearts - yet it was all too short - so that I hope that one day it may happen that we shall meet again.

Thank you for your very kind hospitality.
Yours sincerely —
