

HIMALAYAN HOTEL.
KALIMPONG.

May 21, 1954.

Dear Mrs Roerich,

I am here in Kalimpong with my wife, Purnima Nira Midwani, and before leaving about the middle of next week, I should be very glad to call on you and pay my respects. I am a great admirer of your husband, whose book on the Himalayas I am now reading with the greatest interest. Although I am a stranger to you, you are no doubt familiar with the name of my father, the late Sir Arden Conan Doyle.

If you will be good enough to name any afternoon hour convenient to you at the beginning of next week, my wife and I will call on you at that time.

Yours sincerely,

Denis P. S. Conan Doyle
