My dear Professor Roerich:

I hasten to acknowledge your very cordial greeting of October 23rd last, addressed to me upon your return to Urusvati. It is my sincere hope that you and your distinguished son may have arrived in the best of health, to find Mme. Roerich equally fortified in body and spirit.

I am moved by your expression of appreciation of my insignificant efforts to understand and to seek the way of justice in an extremely difficult situation. I trust that, in facing it, your friends may be able shortly to count upon the encouragement of your presence and the personal guidance of your rich experience and enlightened judgment.

With the greatest pleasure I reciprocate, for my family and myself, the hearty wishes of your own, so thoughtfully expressed in your message of greeting.

Sincerely yours,

David G. Grant
