

Letter to N.R #2.

a body endeavoring to use the minds given it. It is a place fertile with inspiration and I appreciate the opportunity of associating myself with inspired minds.

Aubrey Wells

That the fire of creation may flower ever more abundantly.

Anthony A. del Vecchio.

As long as we can find beauty in art we will worship at its shrine.

Bertram H. Shapiro.

The Academy of Creative Arts is the fire that kindles the desire to give life and appreciation of all that is beautiful and interesting in our world.

Jack Becker.

Much appreciation for the fine achievement of these seven years by helping artists with the finest spiritual inspiration.

C. Vago.

Most sincere admiration of the art of the Great Roerich who brought to America the mysterious beauty of the Soul of Asia and whose wonderful Museum is a real temple of art to students and lovers of it.

Rayer Suite.

It would be difficult to express all the benefits derived by me from my association with the Roerich Museum and the Academy of Creative Arts.

Minnie B. Fritchie.

I find art the key to the door of self expression and a means toward higher ideals.

Milford Abel.

The Academy of Creative Arts gives the artist a splendid opportunity of discovering his inner self.

Signed, A. N.

This group in such a beautiful setting, is an incentive to go on and to grow like those with whom we are brought in contact.

Signed, M. P.

The Academy of Creative Arts has been my sole source of inspiration.

Blanch Gabaer

The above remarks are a few of the written responses of our members, there has been no attempt to record the many verbal messages also received.

The president, officers and members as a group, send their heartiest congratulations to Nicholas de Roerich upon the arrival of the seventh mile stone of the activities of the Roerich Museum in abiding love and sincerest congratulations.

Ever faithfully,

THE ACADEMY OF CREATIVE ARTS.

(Signed ) J. Earl Schrack
