

24, Hotel Imperial,
New Delhi.

April 30, 1958.

I was delighted to have your letter of the 26th. I have not written to you before as I was extremely busy. Moreover, we have just returned from the hills. Kulu was very wonderful. The days were quite clear and the temperature was minimum 48°F and maximum 70°F. Every thing was in flower and we expect wonderful fruit crops. The Government is developing Kulu, building roads and improving the valley and I expect in another two or three years, it will become quite pleasant and travel would become quite easy. I have taken a number of photographs which I will show you upon my arrival in Bangalore. Kindly give the enclosed letters to Mr. Legge and Mr. K.K. Nayar. Read them through so that you have an idea of the contents. Mr. Nayar could consult Fraser & Ross if there is any point he would like to clarify. If there is any special question that may arise please wire us here and ask Mr. Nayar to attend to this matter and complete it before he again goes out of Bangalore.

Delhi has become very hot and a friend of mine measured the temperature while driving in a car, which was 117°F, but it is somewhat better now though I do not think the cool spell will last for any length of time. We are very busy here and there is very little time for anything except our work.

I shall be writing to you again in a few days.
