Mr. Roerich,

I thank you for your letter I received some time back and which, I am sorry, was left unanswered so long, chiefly due to oversight. I do hope you will not mind the unintentional delay.

It was only as a sample that I had arranged to send you the colours which, if approved, could later be supplied in requisite quantities. I shall therefore be much pleased if you would please to accept the same as a small sample for trial. In fact, it has given us the greatest pleasure that you like them.

On hearing from you which particular colours you wish to have, I shall be glad to get them prepared for you, and the cost of it, approximately, will be about Rs. 3/- per pound, with slight variations in price, depending upon the particular colour chosen.

I have great pleasure in also informing you that we have now taken in hand the weaving of the silk cloth selected by Mrs. Roerich, which we hope to complete in the near future.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

S. K. L. S.
