Mr. Dudley Fosdick,
Himalayan Research Institute, of the Roerich Museum.

Dear Mr. Fosdick,

In response to your letter of October 22, let me say that owing to a serious illness of some weeks, the office affairs accumulated and it has been rather difficult to catch up with the details. At this time, unfortunately, I am not able to locate Professor Roerich's letter, but his membership fee was recorded as having been received and was duly deposited to the account of the Archaeological Society. On behalf of the Society, I am sincerely grateful for his very kind interest and feel truly honored that he is among those of our old friends who for the sake of the Society's educational work, faithfully continue their absentee membership.

In regard to the Journal which you refer to as having been received and forwarded to Professor Roerich in India, it seems to me that you must be receiving the Journal published by the Archaeological Institute of America. Of course, you may easily communicate with the office of the Institute which is located I believe, in Schermerhorn Hall, Columbia University, New York City.

The magazine formerly published by the Archaeological Society, "Art and Archaeology" suspended publication July 1, 1934 under the editor who took charge after Dr. Mitchell Carroll died, March, 1925-

Believe me,

Very truly yours,

Caroline B. Carroll.
