Dearest Esther:

I am enclosing herewith twenty-five pamphlets of the "Woman's Unity of Roerich Museum", which I am sure you will want to have for your immediate need. The name of "Woman's Unity of Roerich Museum" was printed on this pamphlet prior to receiving instructions from Kulu, as to the fact that the name should be "Woman's Unity of Roerich Society." Of course, there were only 500 of these pamphlets printed, which will be used very quickly, and the next ones will be printed with the corrected name.

Although school activities for this season have been practically terminated, and we have begun the classes of the summer session, yet there has never been so much work as we have at present. The scopes of the institutions have grown so tremendously that the intensified work is greatly needed. We rejoice in this work more so, since the heat is very intense, and we are so up to the brim with work that we can easily forget the heat.

All your students upon hearing from me about your coming to New York early this fall, exhibited the utmost joy and can hardly await your arrival. Needless to say we all feel as they do, only in a far greater measure, counting the days when we will again have you in our midst.

With all my love to you,

Your devoted sister,

Sina

My dear Miss Lichtmann:

(copy)

Since in Minutes No. 57 of October 31st, from the Trustees in Urusvati is mentioned the handing over all lists and particulars connected with the Nicholas Roerich Paintings Corporation as well as the handing over the general supervision of Urusvati Himalayan Research Institution in New York to myself, I shall deeply appreciate, in view of your impending departure, the possibility of your giving me some time in the near future, so as to go over in detail the work done by you during the last years. It will help me considerably, after acquainting myself with all details, data, and the work carried out during this period, as well as plans which you might have formed for the future, to assume my responsibilities in connection with this work. I shall be very appreciative to you of your assistance and advice which you can give me at present.

Most cordially yours

S. Lichtmann
