As a matter of fact, I find the Teachings give us advice on all points of a higher aspect of life, but the requests are not simple and often hard to combine with the distorted viewpoints of our everyday life and problems.

Thank you so much for explaining the heart catherization. It all sounds most complicated, and very hard to believe. But, since it is being done -- not impossible. I can well imagine that you could write an interesting thesis on it. I never doubted that you would rise in the medical world and am happy that you have been proposed to the Am. Coll of Physicians. I had the impression that you are a specialist in Heart Diseases, since last year when you had to pass your second examination for it. Or was that only a preliminary thing? Of course, you could explain very quickly these points verbally, but by letter this is more complicated. May be Katherine will be able to explain it to me.

*I hope your pursue your beautiful profession with
