

Thoughts

We must always strive to give to our children the true education which aims at the cultivation of the Inner Man.

Humanism correctly understood contains the foundations of a better Society and we must all strive to clearly visualize the fundamentals of better human beings. The young generation will soon have to face the great problems generated by our complex outer civilisation. The only solution is the cultivation and liberation of the Inner Man. We must clearly realise the qualities, behaviour and attitude of a Superior Man.

To this end we must all strive and always remember that no superficial approach can ever solve the great problems of Life, the wellbeing of Mankind. Let us rise to a higher level and so many problems will just cease to exist.

Dr. S. Roerich - August 1986